Red Bulls To Join NPSL

Secaucus, NJ 01/22/2010

New York Red Bulls announced today that it will field an Under-23 team in the National Premier Soccer League. "We are very excited to enter the NPSL, which is one of the top men's amateur leagues in the country," said Red Bulls Director of Youth Programs Bob Montgomery. "It gives the Red Bulls a chance to keep the top homegrown players through their college careers."

The league has 32 teams from around the country competing in four conferences. The New York Red Bulls will join the Atlantic Division of the Northeast Conference. The Maine Sting, New Hampshire Rapids, New York Athletic Club, Morris County Colonials, Brooklyn Italians and Long Island Academy FC comprise the remainder of the Atlantic Division. The Red Bulls will play home and away fixtures with each divisional team for a total of 12 regular season games. Division champions will compete in Conference Championship on July 17 or 18, with the winner advancing the National Finals from July 29–31.

The team's roster will include the core players from the 2009 U20 National Championship team that defeated Chivas USA 7-0 in the final on Aug. 2.

The Morris County Colonials play in the National Premier Soccer League, the highest level of men's amateur soccer in the United States. The Colonials are a member of the New Jersey Soccer group; a management company for organizations providing a full range of soccer services in New Jersey.
